Dave Graybill "The Outdoor Insider"

It is great to see so many people out enjoying the spring weather. There are families fishing the year-round lakes and boaters looking for trout and walleye on the big reservoirs in the region. Many anglers consider this their favorite time of year; however, I should have known better than go walleye fishing during a full moon. The moon plus the warming temperatures on Banks Lake combined to make things difficult. I was just so eager to go that I ignored the conditions. Nate Stull, of Stully's Guide Service, still put Kelly Byran and me on some walleye last Tuesday. Nate found the docks in at Steamboat Rock State Park, so we used this launch and headed from there to Barker Flats. This is an area on Banks Lake where Nate will look for prespawn walleye in the spring. We found some, too. Nate had warned us that the bite was very light right now, and although we did hook some fish, we missed a bunch of bites. Just couldn't get to the rods in time to set a hook. We spent a good amount of time in the morning here and then explored a few other likely locations. Looking back, Nate said we probably should have ground it out on Barker, but you never know. Second guessing is easy. The day turned out to be flat calm, and the water temperature rose almost five degrees. These conditions didn't help. We had a great time, though! This week's photo is of Nate with one of the walleye we landed.

I chose to drive up through Soap Lake on my way to Grand Coulee Dam the other day. It is a little longer drive than going on Highway 2 through Waterville, but this gives me the chance to check out what's going on at Lake Lenore and Dry Falls lakes. Both of these lakes opened on March 1st. These are quality lakes with selective gear rules, which means no bait and a one fish limit, and the trout must be at least 18 inches. They are popular with the fly fishing crowd, and I haven't seen much activity on them so far this season. However, when I drove by last weekend there were a lot of float tubes, kayaks and other floating craft on the water at both of these lakes. The majority of the fishing on Lenore was at the very top end of the lake, which is not unusual for this time of year. The lake is inhabited by Lahontan cutthroat, and they often cruise close to the shore in the spring. At Dry Falls, which is just up the road, I could see at least a dozen anglers from the overlook on the highway.

I hope you remembered what time of year it is. It's the time to renew your fishing licenses and all that can come with it. I am sure you are aware that the WDFW has a new app, the MyWDFW, that allows you to get your licenses, catch record cards, etc., all online. Your information is then available on your phone. There are a lot of questions about just how this new system works, especially in areas where cell service isn't available. I opted to get mine the old fashioned way this year, which may be the last time I can do so. I got my license, two pole endorsement and my Columbia River Endorsement, all for under $25, as I am a senior. I won't need my Washington State Parks Natural Investment sticker for my truck until June. It looks like the cost for this one has doubled, so I may reconsider getting the annual license this year. I still consider the state fishing license a bargain for all the pleasure I get fishing here in Washington.

While in Grand Coulee Dam recently, I took the time to check out one of the popular fishing areas. The level of Lake Roosevelt is dramatically low right now, and that often can mean good fishing out of Spring Canyon. Boaters will launch here and fish from right above the dam to the Swawilla Basin for trout and big kokanee this time of year. It can also be the best time to fish from shore. I stopped to see what was going on at Crescent Beach. It is quite a sight to see how far down the water is and how far anglers walk down to set up to do their fishing. I was lucky enough to run into a fish checker when I stopped to make a few casts from the shore near the boat launch at Cresent Bay. She gave me a report on how the anglers were doing. She said that the group that arrived at six that morning had six very nice rainbow. The other groups she talked to had arrived later in the morning and hadn't done very well.

Only one fish among them.

It is getting to be walleye time here in Central Washington on the big reservoirs in the region. Soon, there will be anglers packing the parking lots at the launches on Banks Lake, Moses Lake and Potholes Reservoir. Thinking about the popularity of walleye fishing, I arranged some interviews with some area guides that are experts on these waters. I first contacted Austin Moser, of Austins Northwest Adventures Guide Service, and after doing a video segment on fishing for kokanee and trout on Lake Roosevelt we did another version on walleye fishing on Banks Lake and Moses Lake. These are available to the subscribers to the FishingMagician.com Facebook page. I recently fished Banks Lake with Nate Stully of Stully's Guide Service. You can see a video of our day on the Dave Graybill YouTube channel. I also did a short video of important tips for early season walleye fishing that is also available to subscribers. I plan to get out soon with Shelby Ross, of Ross Outdoor Adventures Guide Service, to shoot a video on early season walleye fishing. Later this month I will be fishing for spring salmon with Shane Magnuson and Buzz Ramsey. HISTORIC PHOTOS of IDAHO PANHANDLE

Transporting Lumber

Logs in Marble Creek were delivered into the St. Joe River, and eventually floated downstream to the mills with the aid of the Marble Creek dam. This method initially relied upon spring floods, when the water was high enough to move the logs. The drawback to that was that the logs were rocketed at high speed through the raging spring waters, slamming into the sides of narrow canyon walls and boulders in the stream bed. Many logs arrived downstream splintered or broken, sometimes too damaged to use. A simple system of dams and gates was devised that made it possible to back up the flow of the stream into a pond and then float the logs downstream to the St. Joe River even during the summer and fall low water period.

GRASS SEEDING TIP
Increase the odds that your grass seed will sprout & grow as desired by using a tool that you probably have in your kitchen right now - a broom! Running a broom over the seeds ensures that the seeds are more evenly distributed over the area & will also help push them farther down into the soil than would otherwise be achieved when spreading by hand or with a mechanical spreader. SPOKANE SPEED AND CUSTOM SHOW RETURNS

One of the popular activities at the Spokane Speed and Custom Show in the cable-fest where nitro methane field race cars fire up. Speed & Custom photo

SPOKANE — The Spokane Speed and Custom Show returns for another edition, April 10-11-12 at the Spokane Fair and Expo Center.

Launched in 2017 by Brian Anderson, the event has become Washington state's largest all indoor car show.

When it began, the show sought to fill a void left by the legendary Spokane Auto Boat Speed Show that shuttered in 2012 after 49 years starting in 1963. That show, housed in many of the game buildings as Anderson's event, was the idea of 1960s car and racing buffs, Don Wilbur and Orville Moe. Both recently passed away, Moe in 2015 and Wilbur in 2017.

"Yes (we've) been full for two months," Anderson noted in a text message. The show will have in excess of 400 entries from across the country, in eight buildings, Anderson added.

Notable among entries and events are Butch Leal "The California Flash" drag racer. Staying with that theme is a "cackle fest" where four top-fuel cars will be pushed outdoors and fire up their nitro motors three different times as they fire up 6 p.m. Friday, noon and 6 p.m. Saturday.

ARP has sponsored a West Coast Challenge that was started in Spokane. It now has a 5-show West Coast circuit of shows. WCC entries. Have a chance at a $12,500 for first, $6,500 for second and $3,500 third place prize money.

WCC shows include the Grand National Roadster Show in Pomona Calif., the Portland Roadster Show, Spokane Speed and Custom Show, Medford Oregon Rod and Custom show and the Sacramento Autorama.

In addition, the Spokane Cup is awarded to the best "First-time show in Spokane" entry and is worth $5,000.

Also borrowing from Moe and Wilbur's production, among other things this show will have a model car contest and 50-plus vendors.

Show Details:
Friday noon-7 pm,
Saturday 10 am-7 pm
Sunday 10 am-5 pm
Admission:
Adults $15, Kids 8 and younger FREE,
Discount Pre Sale tickets $12 available at All Motion Auto Supply, any Federated Auto parts stores and all three Northside Greggs family ACE Hardware locations.

THE APPLE CUP 57TH RUNNING AT TRI CITY RACEWAY

When the Apple Cup shifted from Yakima Speedway in 2022, Preston Peltier was the winner. Tri City Raceway photo

WEST RICHLAND — Tri-City Raceway will open its 2026 season April 11-12 with the Bonney's TYM Tractors Apple Cup Presented by Legends Casino Hotel, one of the Northwest's most iconic short track races, bringing top drivers from across the West Coast together for a two-day event.

After 17 years being closed and gathering desert dust, the tri-oval half-mile that was first opened in 1968 reopened in 2021. Following the closure of Yakima Speedway, events such as the Apple Cup and Fall Classic shifted to TCR.

The preliminary entry list includes one former race champion in Jason Jefferson who captured the 2003 title.

Here is a look at the schedule:

Saturday, April 11
CARS Tour West Pro Late Models, $7,500 to win, Hobby Stocks and Speedtour Modifieds

Sunday, April 12
Northwest Super Late Model Series Apple Cup 125, $10,000 to win

Saturday also marks the season opener for the CARS Tour West, with rising driver Keelan Harvick expected to compete.

First held in 1967, the Apple Cup remains a longstanding Northwest racing tradition. Tickets are available at TriCityRaceway.com.
